From Chief Editor's Desk

Prof. (Dr.) Naveen Kumar Sharma
HOD MCA

Dear Readers,

At the outset, I welcome you all to the new issue of "Canvas" with many updates. As the Semester Examinations are round the corner, I hope all the students are striving hard to excel in the ensuing examination. As, Head of the Department of MCA, I wish all the students best of luck. I hope every student of MCA Department remembers to stay confident and gives her/his best in the exams.

I would like to thank all the faculty-members of the Department for their steadfast support in successful completion of the academic activities of the semester.

I also wish you all a Happy Holi. May the colors of Holi paint your life with prosperity, harmony and happiness.

“Devin : Words First AI Software Engineer”

It's really fascinating how fast the world is changing. I think 10 to 15 years ago, no one even imagined that machines would have the capacity to do work on their own or think like humans, but today it is all possible. Every day, technology is changing rapidly, and we are becoming more and more technologically advanced. In the last few years, we have seen many advanced technologies like Chat GPT, 5G, Blockchain, which are literally shaping our world and lives. Similarly, I would like to introduce the newest tech-enabled machine called Devin. Devin is the first autonomous AI software engineer invented by the US-based company 'Cognition'. He is a tireless, skilled teammate for the software engineers. Devin is capable of doing task independently, learning over time, and fixing his mistakes too. Developing Devin is really a great achievement in the field of Computer Science, but it has also triggered fear among the software community about Devin's impact on tech jobs. Will it prove to be a job killer as much as it is being seen, or a blessing for techies who will benefit from it? It will be interesting to see what is going to happen in the future.
